

THE BARRE DAILY TIMES

MONDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1911.

Published every week-day afternoon.
Subscriptions: One year, $3.00; one month, 25 cents; single copy, 1 cent.

Entered at the post office at Barre as second-class matter.

Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending last Saturday was copies, the largest circulation of any daily paper in Vermont outside of Burlington.

Last fair call of the year—at Washington.

Either Turkey or Italy is going to tumble over Tripoli.

An extra patrolman wouldn't find his services wasted in Barre.

By selling potatoes at cost, Mayor Shank of Indianapolis may be said to have gone to the root of the high cost of living.

We trust that Katherine Elkins has her eyes turned toward the Mediterranean. Great doings by the Duke of the Abruzzi.

Pennsylvania had both Johnstown and Austin, and yet the fate of the former town had little effect on the latter. Perhaps there are other Johnstowns and Austins, but not all in Pennsylvania.

Judge W. W. Miles, presiding in Rutland county court, has sentenced Henry McTabb, the desperado who shot Thomas W. Rogers of Brandon in attempting to rob Mr. Rogers' house recently, to thirteen years in the state prison at Windsor. Let other Henry McTabbs in Vermont, if there are any with such vicious tendencies as he displayed, take due notice of the fate of McTabb No. 1. If there is any deterrent in the system of punishment, its influence ought to be felt following this notorious case.

One of the regrettable features about this recent flood horror in Pennsylvania is the fact that the people of Austin had been apprehensive of the danger for a long time and that the great dam did partially give way about a year ago, causing grave fear in the narrow valley beneath. Moreover, the dam was permitted to remain only after a legal struggle, it is said, in which the powerful pulp company wielded its influence until the protests against the dam gave way. Now that several hundred lives have been wiped out, we have learned our lesson.

A comic feature of the Turko-Italian war is the departure of many Italian patriots from Boston, armed with shotguns, with which to fight the Turks. If there is to be real warfare between the two countries, doubtless Italy will furnish the high-powered rifles of modern invention, and be pleased that the patriots are enlisting, so that the shotguns will not be necessary. But the war is apt to be so short that even those who started earliest from the United States are not likely to smell any powder; and those who return to Italy will have their pains for nothing.

No case was ever known where a man refused to accept an appointment as United States senator, and I don't care to establish any precedent. —The Hon. Obadiah Gardner.

The Honorable Obadiah must have forgotten about Benjamin F. Fifield of Montpelier, Vt., who declined appointment to the Senate to succeed Senator Justin S. Morrill. But perhaps the new senator from Maine was too busy hoeing potatoes back in 1809 to pay attention to such matters. Nevertheless, the fact remains; and the Honorable Obadiah is wrong in his first positive public statement since being appointed to the Senate by Gov. Plaisted of Maine.

BARRE'S NEW TRADE SCHOOL.

In response to a widespread demand on the part of many citizens and organizations, the city of Barre is about to inaugurate an evening school, which, to all intents and purposes, is the beginning of what will be a trades school of wide influence. In doing this, the city has taken over a private drawing and modeling school, which was conducted for several years, and has enlarged upon it in order that the municipal school shall have the greater influence. As most residents know, the school is located in the Mathewson school building on Elm street, occupying the basement, where excellent accommodations have been fitted up for instruction in the branches of drawing and modeling. The school will be open for inspection this evening, and the formal opening of the school will take place to-morrow evening. Already there has been a good enrollment of pupils, whose ages range from youths to men in middle life, and it is possible that women may be admitted to instruction, since there has been considerable demand for it.

Therefore, the school will start off its first year under rather auspicious conditions. That it will occupy an important part in the industrial life of the community seems assured, but to attain this purpose it needs the hearty co-operation of the people of the city, as well as a large enrollment. At present the instruction will relate particularly to the city's chief industry, granite manufacturing, in the various kinds of drawing and modeling. Already the standard of art in the Barre granite industry is well developed, and the workmanship turned out in statuary and monuments is recognized as of high merit. But there is always room for improvement, and Barre's case is no exception. Hence, the efforts which are now being made to improve the standard through the agency of this evening drawing and modeling school. We hope that as the usefulness of the school reveals itself, the people of the city may be encouraged to include other branches of instruction, which will secure greater development in more kinds of industrial life. But for the present, we should turn our attention toward making the present school a success.

MONTPELIER.

The fire department responded to a call to the house of H. B. Hancock on Elm street yesterday noon, but the chimney fire was extinguished by the use of two extinguishers.

The funeral of John Devine was held Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock from St. Augustine's church and just an hour later the funeral of Mrs. James Supple was held from the same church.

As Miss Sadie Smalley was coming down Camel's Hump Thursday with a party of seminary students, she fell and fractured one knee. She was taken to her home in Morrisville Saturday for treatment.

American-Born Eskimo Girl Plays Leading Part in Selig Film.

"The Way of the Eskimo"—This film will possess a peculiar interest for all, from the fact that the leading part has been taken by a young Eskimo girl of American birth, and that all the other characters—with the exception of two American trappers, who were impersonated by regular Selig actors—have been sustained by Eskimos.

Columbia Enuteasek is the name of the Eskimo maiden, her Christian name being due to the fact that she was born during the World's fair in Chicago, eighteen years ago. Mrs. Potter Palmer, at that time holding a prominent official position in connection with the exposition, acted as godmother to Columbia. Several years later the girl was sent to New York, where she received an excellent education at the expense of prominent people, who were interested in her welfare.

Miss Enuteasek is a bright, intelligent young lady and could easily be mistaken for a girl of American blood. She has proved herself a clever actress, as her work in this unique film will show. It's at Dreamland.

"Great effort counts less than opportunities well used." —Lincoln.

Opportunities come now and then to every man; but to the empty handed they fade in a moment and are gone.

Moral: A Bank account strengthens the hand that seeks opportunity.

If you recognize the fact that A BANK ACCOUNT paves the way for "Opportunity" why not open an account with this Bank NOW. Many others are doing so.
